Water Pollution Outreach Activity

The Office of Environmental Services (OES) conducted an outreach activity on July 10, 2008 for the Water Pollution Control Program (funded by EPA-Region 6). OES coordinated the outreach with the Summer Tribal Youth Program in order to teach kids about water pollution and how water chemistry and quality can be measured.

A trip was made to Dugout Creek (approximately 1 mile west of the Tribal Complex) and to the pond at the Nature Center at the Tribal Complex. The kids collected water samples and were asked to evaluate the area surrounding the water sources for potential pollutants.

After collecting water samples, the kids returned to the Eagle's Nest where they used HACH test kits to measure pH, nitrates, dissolved oxygen, and fecal bacteria from four water sources: Dugout Creek, Nature Center pond, bison pond, and tap water.
